THE PICTURE-PERFECT PRESENT

Bethany Loveridge & Amie Sabadin

Can Meg come up with the perfect present for Dad before time runs out?

With one day to find a special gift for her dad, Meg thinks of ideas by drawing Dad's favourite things. Would he like a fully automatic coffee machine, an indoor ice-skating rink, or a pet hippo? By the end of the day, Meg is out of time, and out of ideas. What will she do?

The Picture-Perfect Present is a book for creative children who love drawing, using their imagination, and their dads!

THE COUNTING SHEEP

Natasha Curtin

It's the greatest baaaand
in all the laaaand,
The Counting Sheep!

Curly, Barney, Betty and Bo are four sheep who love music. Every Friday night, they meet up to play in their band until the sun comes up.

They take their band, The Counting Sheep, to the city to perform, but by the time they've finished playing, everyone in the audience is sound asleep! The same thing happens every night, and soon the bad reviews are rolling in.

Their animal friends try to help, but nothing seems to work. Can anything help them realise their dream of becoming the greatest baaaand in the laaaand?

MEENA'S MOVING DAY

Brenton Cullen & Jennifer Horn

Meena's excited for her own room!
But does being separated mean the sisters won't see each other?

Meena and Lina share a room. They whisper at night and swap secrets and laughs.

But sometimes ... they argue.

When Dad cleans out the sunroom, Meena asks, 'Can it be mine?' As they prepare the room for her, Lina asks, 'But what about me?'

Will Meena be happy in her big room, away from her little sister?

CONNECTED

R. A. Stephens & Tamlyn Teow

Are we all connected?
A mathematical network can demonstrate we are!

Connected introduces children to the mathematical concepts of networks, nodes and edges through the eyes of the children.

Chloe is represented as a node, as are her friends and family, and their friends and family. They are all connected by lines called edges. Just how far will the network spread?

THE MAN WHO STOOD UP TO NED KELLY

Katrina Roe & Krista Brennan

We all know about Ned Kelly,
but what about the brave man who stood up to him?

In 1879, Australia's most notorious bushranger, Ned Kelly, and his gang took over the town of Jerilderie for three days. At this time, Ned was a dangerous outlaw who had already killed three police officers. In Jerilderie, he and his gang locked up the police, robbed the bank, took more than thirty people hostage and stole thousands of pounds. But one man, John Gribble, demanded that Ned return precious items he'd stolen.

You know about Ned Kelly, now meet the brave man who stood up to him.

UNDER A DIFFERENT SKY

Edited by R. A. Stephens & Laura Norris

Stories of migration, of new experiences, and new homes.

Stories of migration across the seas, stories of new experiences learnt only once a new home is found and stories that are full of emotion.

In this collection, Australian authors share fictional stories about migration and diaspora, drawing inspiration from their own experiences.

Each story explores culture, identity, and belonging, posing a profound question: What does it mean to change the sky you live under?

If I Were A Lion is a frolicsome anthem of self-affirmation for all children.

If I Were A Lion follows the journey of different children as they express admiration for different lion traits, wishing they had the same courage, curiosity, lounging ability or terrific smile that lions do. But, with the wishing comes the realisation that those same abilities are the ones they already have. Everyone can be a lion, everyone is fierce and free to be themselves!
